Below we can read that Redflex is responsible for the citation process. Redflex fail to include the yellow light in the red light camera citation which is the reason for the ongoing civil rights violation.

We can also read that the yellow light is addressed in the contract which shows its importance.

Beaverton is also required to meet the MINIMUM yellow light timing standards for these camera intersections which their own data show that they fail to do.

The LED requirement shows that the traffic light lamps were upgraded due to the installation of these Redflex camera systems when they were first installed back in 2001.
